ELIA BEST AT THILADELPHIA SHOW

Boston Terrier From Buffalo Receives Highest Honor Over Many Rivals.

PRIZES FOR MRS. BRECHT

Champion Rexcelia, owned by John Dietschler of Buffalo, was adjudged the best dog of either sex at the annual pecialty show of the Philadelphia Boston specially show of the Paliadelphia Boston Terrier Club, held in the Bingham Hotel at Philadelphia on Thursday. This little bitch was not entered in the regular classes, her owner having elected to show her for specials only and in the class where she would have to compete against the leading winners in the previous classes. Reserve to Rexcella was the dog winner. Peter's Captain, a New England winner owned by John R. Hudson of Waltham, Mass.

Both of these dogs are well known on the circuit, Rexcelia having won a championship during 1914 by comp cing at all of the large shows, where she gained an enviable record. She is a typical bitch, has a beautiful head, correct markings and is a clean cut one all over, Peter's Captain was the winner at the recent Boston Specialty Show and also has been a winner at other big shows, including Albany. He is a light-weight of good type, although of small size. John Keegan's The Whistler, a local dog which was reserve winner to Captain in the dog winners class, was favored by many for the winners honor. He is a remarkably well built dog, has perfect markings, a good head and was Boutelle Comes Home With nown in the best of condition.

bitch, with Charles Arthur's Brynavia reserve, both of which were extremely lucky to go over Mrs. B. H. Throop's lucky to go over Mrs. B. H. Throop's Champion Miss Sporty Toss. Beautiful Girl made her championship by winning, and although she is a good type of bitch the majority of the critics at the ring-side seemed to favor Miss Sporty Toss for the leading position.

Among the Philadelphia exhibitors who did some good winning was Mrs. Mary E. Brecht, whose Pequeeno won the cup for the best dog shown by a woman, cup for the best brace with Fas-cinator and Dainty Girl: special for best fronted matron or dog with Fascinator; cup for best pair in one litter with Pequeene and Lady Innocent, and also the special for the best decorated bench.

She has won over every dog at the breeders' match on two occasions and will make her bow to the public at a big show soon. The match was a dispappointment as far as numbers went, as there were barely a dozen dogs entered. George Low was the judge and a fair sized crowd watched the making of the awards. If all those who came to the match had brought an entry or two the competition would have been more interesting.
